

PRESENTATION

The Coastal Development and Sustainable Maritime Tourism minor aims to train students in sustainable management of coastal regions and the development of maritime tourism. Theoretical and practical learning helps students to acquire knowledge adapted to the challenges of coastal regions, while benefiting from an enriching multicultural and international experience.

Targeted skills :

- Analyze issues related to environmental management and coastal area management by taking a professional posture
- Developing an international professional posture by working with industry experts
- Analyze the interactions between biodiversity, tourism and sustainable development in a comprehensive approach

Key words

Coastal regions Tourism Environnement EU-CONEXUS

COURSE CONTENTS

L2

L3

Courses offered by the EU-CONEXUS European Alliance vary each year. Discover this year's course catalogue on the Coastal Development and Sustainable Maritime Tourism minor programme page.

WHAT'S NEXT?

Depending on their projects, students who have completed the Coastal Development and Sustainable Maritime Tourism minor can enter a master's program in their major field building on their specific knowledge of coastal regions management, the environment, geography, sustainable tourism, etc. They can also pursue a degree related to coastal engineering at various higher education institutions.

COORDINATOR

Stéphanie Chiron
stephanie.chiron@univ-lr.fr

COURSE CAPACITY

30 spots

PREREQUISITES

This minor is open to students of all majors with sufficient English.